

The K-LOVE radio station gives me encouragement when I'm feeling down. They comfort me when the future seems unclear. They remind me why I'm here and they help me remember the value God has placed on me.

If K-LOVE were to be replaced by other programming on LPFM or any other type of broadcasting in my area, crime-rates would increase, stress levels in our community of over 3,000,000 people would increase, domestic violence would increase as well. The reason for all the increase would be the lack of hope felt by a significant percentage of the population.

This service is in the public interest for the above reasons and to summarize: it keeps the crime-rates lower and encourages community involvement and caring for those who cannot pay us back. It is a safety-net for so many people in this very large community here in Colorado and in other big city and as well as small town areas.
